Oral Health Sciences Summer Conference
June 11, 2015

Have you thought about opportunities to:
- Do research on problems in oral health sciences that relate to clinical dentistry?
- Pursue a long-term career in academic dentistry where you will conduct clinical teaching, research and service in one of the nation’s finest schools of dentistry?
- Be among leaders in modern academic dentistry?

The University of Michigan School of Dentistry OHS Program is committed to excellence and diversity. Students interested in pursuing a PhD or DDS/PhD in Oral Health Sciences are encouraged to attend our OHS Summer Conference.

Eligibility:
- An academic background in science
- PhD or DDS/PhD degree goal in the Oral Health Sciences
- Plan to apply to graduate school in 2016, 2017 or 2018
- Students from underrepresented racial and ethnic groups, low-income family backgrounds, first-generation U.S. citizens, and first-generation college students are especially encouraged to apply.

Strong candidates will possess:
- Basic science research experience in a laboratory setting
- Strong letters of recommendation from a professor or lab mentor

How to Apply and RSVP your spot: Application deadline is May 1, 2015
Email required documents to dent-ohsphd@umich.edu

Please provide:
- Your resume or curriculum vitae with mailing address and one references
- A personal statement: Describe your research and academic achievements, research interests for graduate training, background and life experiences, and why your participation in this conference will support your career objectives. (Attach at the end of your resume or CV.)
- One letter of recommendation: Letter should be from a professor or research mentors who can evaluate your academic and scientific potential for graduate school, especially those that can comment on your research or academic experiences. The letters should be sent directly to dent-ohsphd@umich.edu.
